LARGE BARN BURNED DOWN

Catches Fire After Lightning Strikes
Wagon Wrench in Thomas T.
Newby's Hand.

WIND SAVES OTHER BUILDINGS

Horse and Two Vehicles Saved in Blaze on Farm Near Carthage,
But Much Grain Burns.

Lightning, during the severe storm which passed over Rushville and northern Rush county late yesterday afternoon, struck Thomas T. Newby, a prominent farmer living southeast of Carthage, while he was greasing a wagon in the barn at his farm.

Mr. Newby was severely shocked, but was not seriously injured. The barn caught fire and burned to the ground. The fact that the wind blew the flames away from the house and other buildings on the farm was responsible for them being saved.

Mr. Newby did not note the approach of the storm as he was busy doing up the evening chores about the farm. He was in the act of loosening a tap on a wagon wheel when the bolt of lightning struck the wrench in his hand and lit up the barn as if it were the middle of the day.

The lightning leaped from the wrench to the axle of the wagon and then into the floor of the barn, setting it afire. Fire also broke out in the roof where the lightning entered. Mrs. Newby and her daughter saw smoke issuing from the barn and did not know or realize what had happened for some time afterward.

Mr. Newby was slightly stunned by the lightning, but he was not knocked down and soon realized what had happened. He worked frantically to save some of the things in the barn, but succeeded in getting out of the path of the flames only a horse, buckboard and wagon.

The horse was the only live stock in the barn. The structure was full, however, of corn, wheat and other grain, in addition to some hay. The flames spread so rapidly that Mr. Newby could not get anything else out.

The barn was very large and was probably the best and most modern one in that section of the county. It is expected that the loss will approximate two thousand dollars. It is thought that the insurance on the barn will cover the loss.

Mr. Newby is the uncle of Mrs. F. G. Hackleman of North Morgan street.

MRS. ALFORD ASKS DIVORCE

Cruel Manner.

Zora A. Alford, through her attorney, T. M. Offutt filed suit for divorce today from Omer G. Alford. Mrs. Alford alleges cruel and inhuman treatment and states that on the day they separated, August 23, 1913, he came home drunk and proceeded to "beat up on her." She says she was knocked down by her husband. He then deserted her taking with him their seven-year-old son. She asks the custody of their youngest child and also that the court see that he properly cares for the boy he has with him.

LIGHTNING SETS I. & C. CAR ON FIRE

Blaze is Soon Put Out, However,
With Extinguishers Carried on All Cars.

BOLT DAMAGES TRANSFORMER

The lightning played havoc with the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line late yesterday afternoon, when it rendered useless the big transformer at the power house and held up the cars on this circuit. Nothing could be done until another transformer was connected up and this required some time.

Lightning set on fire the westbound car due here at 5:37 yesterday evening, but the blaze was soon extinguished with fire extinguishers which are carried on all cars. The fire caught in the partition between the smoker and the other compartment and blazed up until most of the passengers sought safety in the end of the car. One man broke the glass door attempting to get out of the smoker. The woodwork was charred and the seats fastened to the partition were singed. Every time the trolley was put on the wire the fire would blaze up again, so there was nothing to do but wait for help. The accident happened three miles this side of Connersville.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT STARTED TODAY

Mrs. Lennie Beall Demanding $10-
250 From Union Traction Company For Personal Injuries.

HERE FROM HENRY COUNTY

The damage suit of Mrs. Lennie Beall against the Indiana Union Traction company, sent here on a change of venue from the Henry circuit court started this morning in the circuit court before Judge Megee and a jury. Mrs. Beall demands $10-250 for personal injuries alleged to have been received in a grade crossing accident near Summitville in 1909.

Mrs. Beall, with her husband, who is a Newcastle clothing merchant, was driving home from Point Elizabeth and their buggy was hit by one of the defendant company's cars. She alleges that her injuries are permanent and consist of an injured spine, a broken arm that is almost useless and an injury to her right leg. Mrs. Beall was the first witness and was on the stand a greater part of the day.

ARREST MADE IN STORE ROBBERY

Ned Crosby, Formerly of Milroy,
Charged With Taking Jewelry
From Kennedy & Casady.

POLICE STUMBLED ON TO CLUE

Claimed he Tried to Pawn it in Indianapolis—Letter Will Play Important Part.

With the arrest of Ned Crosby, formerly of Milroy, yesterday afternoon at Culver, Ind., the police believe they have at last solved the robbery of the Kennedy & Casady store here on the night of December 28, 1912. It was almost a mere accident that Chief McAllister happened on to the clue that led to the arrest of Crosby but through circumstances a net has been woven about him, that makes the police certain of his conviction.

Ned Crosby is a son of the late Caesar Crosby and up until about a month ago was connected with the Milroy telephone company, which company was managed by his father and since his death by his mother. The robbery of the Kennedy & Casady store took place so long ago that all hopes of capturing and connecting the robbery with any one person was almost abandoned, and because of this the arrest of young Crosby comes as a surprise.

On the night of December 28th, which was on Saturday night, the store was entered through a vacant upstairs room by cutting a hole in the wall. The vacant room was just back of the Western Union office and led into the upstairs of the Kennedy and Casady store. The only thing missed was a large amount of jewelry from a show case. The value was probably $100, but the exact amount was not known, as it was impossible to tell since no invoice was kept.

There was no clue to the robbery whatever and all efforts to locate the guilty party failed. Nothing more was thought of the robbery and the police had given up all hope as had the proprietors of the store. Last week Chief McAllister and Squire Kratzer, while in Indianapolis looking for the two boys that had left the city without paying a board bill at the Seanlan House, visited the Indianapolis police station. While there various subjects were discussed and Detective Kinney related the finding of a suit case full of jewelry at a pawn shop and later of the pawn broker receiving a letter from a Milroy party to forward the case to him. The suit case was displayed and found to contain jewelry of the description sent out by Kennedy & Casady.

A few days after this Ralph Kennedy of the firm of Kennedy and Casady visited the Indianapolis police department and identified the jewelry as his property. It was easy to identify, as the jewelry was left on the display cards just as it had been taken off and through this it was identified.

The story of the pawn broker, whose name is not known to the local police, told the Indianapolis detective that the suit case was brought into his place of business some time in April. The man bringing it handed him a handful of rings and asked for some money on them. The pawn broker began asking questions as he suspected robbery. The party with the suit case could give no satisfactory explanation and the police were called. In the meantime the party with the suit case left the store hurriedly leaving the suit case there. When the police arrived the case was

STAND IS TAKEN AGAINST BILL

Mayor Black and Councilman Kelley
Oppose Paying Tree Doctors
For Work in Park.

APPROPRIATION IS PASSED

Then Hizzoner Says he Will Not Sign Ordinance Until he Investigates —Appoint Inspectors.

The city council met last night in special session for the purpose of appointing inspectors for the coming city election, but as usual the council did the unexpected and before the session was over a warm fight had been made on paying the tree doctors for the work done in the city part.

It will be remembered that the tree doctors presented a bill of $493.50 several weeks ago and it was not allowed because the city attorney held that there was no appropriation and that the work had already been done and that an appropriation could not be made for work already done. Mayor Black was opposed to the bill stating that he did not even know the tree doctors had done any work in the park.

The fight last night started when Councilman Parsons introduced an ordinance calling for the appropriation of $500 from the general fund for the improvement of the park. According to the city attorney the council had the right to pass a special appropriation ordinance if there was that much money in the general fund. According to Dr. Parsons the general fund contained about $4,000 unexpended. Before the ordinance was finally passed a general discussion took place.

Councilman Kelley was opposed to the ordinance because he thought the work was too high priced. Dr. Parsons informed him that the State Forestry company had treated 130 of the 140 trees in the park and that they averaged about $4 a tree. This he said was very reasonable for the nature of the work.

Councilman Newhouse stated that he could not understand why the council wanted to take sides on the payment of this bill. "The work was done after the mayor had appointed the park committee and given them power to act and I see no reason why the bill should not be paid" said Mr. Newhouse. At this point Mayor Black called for the record but the city clerk could not find any record of the park committee being given power to act. Mayor Black stated that he did not know the work was even going on until the bill was presented. The park committee was to get an estimate from a landscape gardener and in the meantime the tree doctors appeared and did some sample work. This was reported to the council and then the committee was given power to act in the matter of having the trees doctored. There never was any money expended on the city and according to Councilman Orme the city should expend between $800 and $1,000 every year. "Here we have a city of 6000 population and should spend or have an appropriation every year for from $800 to $1,000," said Mr. Orme "and spend it on the park. As it is the park is nothing more than a damned old woods."

Councilman Newhouse stated that he had the first man to meet yet who had objected to the bill. According to him the committee acted in good faith and thought that they were doing right in having the old dead limbs removed and the trees put in first class condition. Dr. Parsons stated that there was any amount of money paid by the city that was

A. T. MAHIN BRINGS SUIT AGAINST CITY

Demands $600 Alleging That he Had Written Contract With Rushville to Manage Water Plant.

CLAMS $533 IS STILL DUE HIM

The city of Rushville was made a defendant in a suit filed this morning in the circuit court by A. T. Mahin, who demands $600 on a written contract. The suit is the outgrowth of the "canning" of Mr. Mahin by the city council last February. Mr. Mahin in the complaint states that he was employed as superintendent of the water and light plant July 9, 1907, at a salary of $1200 a year payable each month. The employment according to the complaint was made on a written proposal of the plaintiff to the city and set forth the conditions of the employment, which were accepted by the city.

It is further set out that he managed the plant until February 1, 1913, at which time the defendant without any notice whatever pretended to discharge plaintiff and did forceably take charge of the plant and by so doing deprived him of carrying out his part of the contract. It is stated that there is still due him the sum of $533 and he demands judgment of $600. Will M. Sparks and Young & Young represents Mr. Mahin.

CURIOSITY GOT THE BETTER OF HIM

Foreigner at Peoples National Bank
Building Pulled Lever in Fire Alarm Box.

HE SHOUTED "DON'T COME"

A foreigner who is employed on construction work at the Peoples National bank building and who, for the want of a pronounceable name, is called Frank Cemento, surveyed the fire alarm box at the corner of Main and Second streets this morning when he came to work. It was open and he studied it carefully. Finally his curiosity got the upper hand and he pulled the lever. That's the reason the fire bell rang 132 this morning about six-thirty o'clock.

Frank was astounded when the bell began to ring. "Stop that machine," he shouted repeatedly as he ran around the box and motioned and gesticulated to everyone in sight. Finally, as a last resort, he yelled into the box, "Don't come, Don't come." But the fire company didn't pay any attention to Frank and came anyway. Pretty soon the "fire" was rung out. But Frank's fellow workmen are still telling him that he is going to be arrested.

FINISHES WITH PERFECT SCORE

September Takes a Little Spurt in the Last Lap and Manages to Reach Normal.

SOME RAINFALL YESTERDAY

Weather Man in Good Humor, Promises Fair Weather Tonight or Tomorrow.

By making a spurt in the last lap of the thirty-day stretch, September, 1913, finished its career yesterday with almost a normal record for the amount of rainfall. The few hours precipitation yesterday raised the total for the month of 3.02 inches, as compared with a normal September downfall of 3.05 inches. It is an interesting point that of the 1.12 inches that fell yesterday, more than 1 inch came out of the ethereal sprinkler during the fifteen minutes between 4:30 and 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon. The total rainfall for the month until yesterday was only 1.90 inches.

Ft. Wayne also experienced a heavy rain yesterday, the precipitation amounting to 1.20 inches. Grand Rapids, Mich., was treated to a dose of 1.02 inches. Rain was prevalent throughout Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Virginia, Pennsylvania and in the lower southern states.

The Weather Man was in good humor this morning. He predicted fair weather. Waiving his hand toward the window at the gloom aspect of a cloudy day, he said the good citizens of Indiana might expect relief and a little cheer from the sun in the afternoon or by tomorrow, anyway.

He explained it in this way: The storm center has started for new fields and is traveling eastward. A high air pressure area is crossing the

NEW TREATY BETWEEN JAPAN AND AMERICA

May Be Outcome of Latest Protest From the Orient.

Tokio, Oct. 1.—In regard to the California land laws the Japanese government has sent a third protest to the United States. The Japanese officials are sanguine that the United States will accept the terms which it proposes, in which case, it is said, a new treaty between the two countries will be necessary.

The terms are said to imply an application of the Roman law with an extension of the president's authority by placing the latter above the veto of the supreme court. Article VI, Clause 11 of the American constitution is cited in support of Japan's position.

Creates Fresh Suspicion in the Wilkinson Case.

REV. ORA RUDY IS MISSING

Uncle of the Murdered Wife of Clinton Wilkinson Has Not Been Seen or Heard From in Four Weeks, and a Suit of Bullet-Marked, Bloodstained Underwear Found in Wilkinson Woods Has Aroused Suspicion.

Peru, Ind., Oct. 1.—Prosecutor Hal Phelps and Deputy Sheriff William Doss suspect that Clinton Wilkinson, wife murderer, can tell, if he will, what has become of the murdered woman's uncle, the Rev. Ora Rudy, who has been absent from this locality for four weeks, during which time none of his relatives has heard from him.

Wilkinson says he does not know where Rudy is, but the finding of a bloody suit of underwear containing holes that look like they might have been made by bullets, in a woods across the road from the Wilkinson home, has caused the officials to suspect that they belonged to the missing minister and that he has been killed.

The officers made a search of the woods and also of the cornfield where the murdered woman's body was found, but they made no unusual discovery. However, Prosecutor Phelps has not dismissed his suspicion as to Rudy's disappearance.

SENATE NOW HAS THE TARIFF BILL

It Passed House By Vote of 254 to 103.

MAY BE A LAW BY SATURDAY

At Least the Leaders in Congress Believe the Senate Will Not Lose Much Time in Considering the Revenue Measure Which They Expect Will Go to President For His Approval the Last of the Week.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The house of representatives adopted the conference report on the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill by a vote of 254 to 103. The measure has thus been advanced one step nearer the statute books. Only the concurrence of the senate and approval by the president remain now for the bill to become a law and effective at once.

The Democratic leaders believe the senate will conclude consideration of the bill within a day or two and that President Wilson will receive it in time to give it his approval by Saturday night. Indications though are that trouble is brewing for the conference report in its present form unless he is bound to do so by caucus action. He started the circulation of a petition calling for another caucus of the Democratic senators to make changes in the bill. Other Democratic senators are disgruntled over certain features, but it is doubtful if the opposition will be able to put any serious obstacles in the way of the final adoption of the conference report.

Following the passage of the bill in the house, Speaker Clark made a speech in which he congratulated everybody in the Democratic party and predicted that the new tariff law would bring fat times and plenty. In his address Chairman Underwood stuck to dry figures and facts. He denied the charge made by Representative Payne of New York, Republican, that the new tariff would create a deficit, contending that calculations made by experts demonstrated beyond doubt that the new law in its first year would yield enough to keep the wheels of government in motion and at the same time supply a surplus of approximately $18,000,000.

Four and a half hours' debate was allowed on the report and the discussion at times was bitterly partisan. Progressive Leader Murdock scouted the thought frequently expressed by the Democrats that the new tariff would reduce the cost of living. He asserted that more important factors than mere customs laws entered into that equation.

Only four Democrats strayed off the party reservation. Representatives

Lazaro, Morgan and Broussard of Louisiana, who are opposed to free sugar, and Representative Donohue of Pennsylvania, who wanted more protection on certain products turned out in his district and who was disappointed, were the only members of the president's party who voted against the conference report. Representatives Stafford and Cary of Wisconsin, Republicans, the first a regular and the other an insurgent, Representatives Kelly of Pennsylvania and McDonald of Michigan, Bull Moose, and Representative Kent of California, who calls himself an independent, voted with the Democrats. The conference report was brought up in the senate today.

Mrs. Youngwife (speaking to grocer)—"I wish to complain about that flour you sold me. It was tough. I made a pie with it and my husband could hardly cut it, and I want some soap, too. Any kind will do, I guess—all soap's alike."

Anty Drudge—"My dear young woman, you're a stranger to me, but I hope you will excuse me for speaking to you. I can see that you are inexperienced, and I must tell you to order Fels-Naptha Soap and never use any other kind. When you get as old as I am you will still be using it, too."

Fels-Naptha Soap saves money, time and strength. It does its work quickly, thoroughly and easily in cool or lukewarm water, thus saving the expense of coal or gas.

Clothes washed with Fels-Naptha do not have to be hard-rubbed or boiled. Dirt disappears and stains of all kinds—even stubborn blood stains vanish.

For all kinds of household use it is the easiest and most economical. Follow the easy directions on the Red and Green Wrapper.

The Daily Republican

is one of a syndicate of leading newspapers which has had the wonderful opportunity of securing for a limited time the entire advance edition of the most modern dictionary published, enabling them to inaugurate a great educational campaign of national scope. This NEW dictionary has been agreed upon as the means of carrying out these plans, as it meets every requirement. It is NOT yet sold at stores, as these newspapers have arranged to take the entire output up to the time selected by its publishers previous to its sales at its list price.

THIS ILLUSTRATES THE $4.00 BOOK

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW MODERN ENGLISH DICTIONARY WITH LATEST UNITED STATES CENSUS:

This most convenient and latest of all Dictionaries is based on the principles embodied in Noah Webster's Dictionary, printed from new type and profusely illustrated in color, revised and brought right up to today by American and English authorities, designed to meet every demand of a modern, reliable Dictionary.

It includes all words in the English language that do not properly belong to a Dictionary of Technical Terms. In fact, its recent publication and careful revision by the greatest authorities in the world enable it to define and treat a large number of words of recent coinage that cannot be found in any other Dictionary, no matter how cumbersome and pretentious.

Surprising results are obtained in looking up the spelling, pronunciation and definition of a host of words which have been incorporated into our language only yesterday, as it were. Take, for instance, Volplane, Aeroboot, Pylon, Cavitation, Biplane, etc., introduced as a result of recent aeronautical activity—also such new words as Brainstorm, Biliken, Cordite, Denatured, Dunnite, Joy Ride, etc.—also Okapi, an animal allied to the Giraffe—also Hookworm, Lettergram, Nickelodeon, Stovaine, Hangar, Equilibrator, etc.

Thus the evidences of painstaking compilation are found on every hand.

Tree Butchers Abroad.

The trees of the city show that the tree butcher has been abroad in the land. Nowadays he calls himself a tree surgeon; a little while ago he was a tree culturist, but no matter what he calls himself, he is a tree butcher.

One sees trees for whole long blocks with their tops sawed off, especially the soft maples and laments at this form of desecration. Pruning a tree to maintain its strength and vigor, repairing injuries and correcting false growths are all things that should be done, but the tree butcher who ruthlessly interferes with the work of nature, who tries to make a maple look like an umbrella tree, who recklessly beheads the fast growing poplar, who tries to make shrubs of all kinds affect a certain form is a miserable miscreant.

We have too few trees to permit what he have to be ruined by the tree butcher. He can usually be identified because he prunes with a saw and an ax. Perhaps he learned pruning bound to increase in price this winter. We hope that persons who believe this will heed the warning and lay in a full supply for the winter.

We note that Harry Thaw and his interviews are crowding back to the inside with the advertising matter where they belong.

In spite of the demand that popular heroes be commemorated by suitable memorials, no movement has been started to set up one in the streets of Rushville for Jawn Kelly, our street commissioner—even though he had all three of the paved streets swept last week.

Something to Worry About.

Cadillac, Michigan, is reported to be the foremost city in the country for varied and close utilization of forest products.

We read with much concern that foodstuffs are to be even higher this winter. Each one of those things called foodstuff should be wrapped in a copy of the Democratic national platform.

TRYING TO CATCH STRANGE AUTOIST

Greensburg Police Looking For Man Who Ran Down Horse Buyer Near Clarksburg.

MACHINE NUMBER PROCURED

The Greensburg police are making an effort to trace the automobilist who ran down and injured near the Rush-Decatur county line north of Clarksburg, Sunday evening, W. M. Calloway of Connersville.

The number of the machine was procured in Clarksburg after Calloway sent a message to that place requesting that the driver be held.

Calloway says he drove his horse down into the ditch and so near the fence that it almost touched. Even then the big machine dashed down after him, struck the buggy, demolished it, frightened the horse and slightly injured him.

The machine knocked the man down and ran upon him. One woman came up to Calloway and said: "Well, this is not our fault." Calloway asked the driver for his name. "Our name is Brown," the woman replied.

"They got away so quick I could not make out the number," said Calloway, "but I telephoned to Clarksburg and asked that the party be arrested. There was no officer in Clarksburg, but Dr. Beal got the number of the machine."

The Rev. F. N. Huntington, the new pastor of the First Baptist church will come tomorrow to take charge of the church and will be present at the call and business meeting. The Rev. Mr. Huntington comes here from the Waldron church.

Joel G. Carson of the Plum Creek neighborhood yesterday purchased the home of S. C. Conner at the corner of Harrison and Eleventh street. Mr. and Mrs. Conner will locate in Des Moines, Iowa, permanently in a few weeks.

Mrs. C. O. Patton, of Milroy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Adkins, of Carthage and Mrs. Ed Shields returned last night from their Ohio river trip of two days. The pleasure of the trip was somewhat marred by the steady rains.

The Rev. M. Houston of Indianapolis is assisting the Rev. E. T. Lewis in a series of revival meetings at the Blue Ridge M.E. church. Services are held each evening at 7 o'clock, to which all are cordially invited.

Prof. J. A. Carroll the singing evangelist who conducted the music at the Big Flatrock church during the revival is in a meeting at Mt. Carmel, Ill. There will be a meeting with the Rev. Mr. McMullen at Blue Ridge, Shelby county, in November.

Your Heating Stove

Should be selected with care and judgment. A cheap stove or a poorly constructed stove is always a bad investment, because it goes on wasting fuel (and dollars) for you year after year. For the average user nothing will equal a good HOT BLAST. I can show you a line which is strictly up-to-the-minute—all the good features of the old kinds, with all the new things added. ARREST MADE IN STORE ROBBERY opened and was found to contain the jewelry.

It was held with the hopes that the party attempting to sell it would again be found. About six weeks ago the pawn shop proprietor received a letter asking him to forward the suit case with a threat that he would be sued if he failed. The letter was turned over to the police and according to Chief McAllister the letter was signed in Crosby's name and was sent from Milroy.

With the letter in possession of the police the circumstances against Crosby were strong and the police started out to find him. A trip to Milroy yesterday revealed the fact that he was in Culver along with his wife and the rest was easy. The police there were notified to hold him and in a very short time word came back that he was under arrest. McAllister left this morning for Culver and is expected back here with Crosby either late tonight or tomorrow morning.

The police believe that if Crosby is guilty or was connected with the robbery he had an accomplice and hope to obtain his name. The charge against Crosby is grand larceny and he will be arraigned before Squire Kratzer.

Crosby left Milroy about one month ago and went to Culver. His wife, who was formerly June Hudgins of this city, is employed there in the telegraph office, along with her husband. His mother and sisters in Milroy knew nothing of the arrest until asked concerning it this morning. All were positive that some mistake had been made and were firm in their belief that he is innocent.

SUFFERS WOUND IN HER HEAD

Mrs. Martha Burton, aged seventy-three years, of Kokomo, Ind., who is the guest of Mrs. Angeline Brooks and family, of Waldron, had a narrow escape from fatal or serious injury yesterday when she fell down the cellar steps at the Brooks home. The aged lady was intending to wash a few articles of clothing. There are two doors in the kitchen at the Brooks home, one leading into a bedroom and the other into the cellar. Not being well acquainted with the home, Mrs. Burton started into the bedroom, but took the wrong door and stepped off into the cellar. She fell the distance of fifteen steps. She suffered a wound on the left side of her head and one of her teeth was broken off in the accident. The steps are stone and the floor of the basement is cement. How she escaped without being dangerously hurt is a miracle. She was unable to speak when found by Mrs. Brooks and it was feared for a time she had been killed.

The Proof is in Rushville, Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Rushville citizen is in itself strong proof for Rushville people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Rushville citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved weak kidneys and now states the result was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

G. Priest, 223 West Third street, Rushville, Ind. says "I use Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I feel in need of a kidney tonic and they always give highly satisfactory results. I gladly confirm what I said in their praise some years ago. For several years I had kidney trouble which came on by spells. The complaint started with a dull pain just over my kidneys then I became weak and dizzy. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention and were so highly recommended that I got a supply at Johnson & Co's Drug Store. They proved to be the best medicine of the kind I had ever tried and in a short time restored my kidneys to a normal condition."

CHAPTER XII.
Inside the Barrier.

WE trudged along the sand parallel to the boat, which was following the course of the barrier reef, seeking what I knew they would not find—an entrance to the lagoon and thence to the island. The lagoon narrowed in places, until had it not been for the roar of the waves in the reef a hail could easily have carried. I am ashamed to say that I used insulting gestures on occasion, whereat some of them stood up in the boat and shook their fists in our direction. Although I was sure they could not reach us, their presence was a menace and a barrier to us. After they had rowed the length of the island they gave it up and went back to the ship, which had followed their course.

By this time the day was far spent. We retraced our steps and came to the place where I had hauled up the dingy. We were hungry. The provisions we had taken with us we had eaten during the journey. The first business was supper. I had noticed some coconut trees and other strange tropical fruits, so I had no fear of starvation. We could live on the island indefinitely; therefore I was not sparing with the provisions. We kindled a fire and made shift to boil some coffee. We had neither milk nor sugar, but the taste of civilization did us good.

For the night I capsized the boat and drew it close against the coral wall, spread the sail and boat cloak upon the clean, dry sand, gave her one blanket and bade her take her rest. It was snug, dry and comfortable. "But you?" she asked. "I shall do very well here with my boat cloak and one of the blankets, and I shall lie across the stern of the boat between it and the cliff, out of sight, but within touch or call if you need me."

"I am afraid," she said softly. "Nothing can come to you except over my body, and I am a light sleeper. Anything will rouse me," I said reassuringly.

"I would not have you harmed, either," she persisted.

"I shall not be."

"There may be wild beasts."

"I do not think there is an animal on this island," I laughed, "and we have seen no signs of man. The ship certainly would have attracted the attention of some one had not the island been deserted."

"But those men out there?"

"You forget the rampart that God has flung about us. Now, madam, you can go to sleep in safety, I assure you."

"Before that," she said, dropping down on her knees in the sand and motioning me to follow her example, which I did awkwardly enough—I hope I am not a mocker or disbeliever, but I confess that I didn't often bend the knee—"we will have a prayer together."

She had slipped a little prayer book within her dress, and she now drew it forth from her bosom and by the light of the fire read the Psalm of David, which begins: "Out of the deep have I called unto thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice." And then she prayed, using some of the old collects of the church and adding one of her own making in which she besought God to care for us further, while she thanked him for having raised up a defense for her in my poor person, only she did not so describe it. I listened very humbly, saying a heartfelt "Amen" at the end.

There was a silence for a little space when she had finished, and in that silence I devoted myself before God to her service again, and then she rose and gave me her hand.

"You have been a true knight and gentleman," she said softly, her eyes shining, "and I thank you."

I could only take it dumbly and stare at her like the great fool I was, whereat she smiled brightly, although her eyes suddenly filled with tears.

"And now," she added: "God keep you. Good night."

I then kissed her extended hand, which she suffered without resistance. I sat for a long time before the fire, thinking and making plans for our escape. The ship didn't give me much concern, because I was sure she couldn't come at us and in the end she must go away and leave us.

A long time I sat there until I finally fell asleep. I must have slept some time and soundly for I was weary. It was she who awakened me. When I opened my eyes and saw her sweet face bending over me and heard her dear voice calling me I declare I almost felt as if I had died and gone to heaven and was being welcomed by an angel.

Our first waking thought was for the ship. She was still there in the dingy. She had been hove to during the night. I could imagine what fierce debate and wrangling there were aboard her.

The day that passed was much like the afternoon before. Although we were by this time persuaded that the reef was an absolute protection, a vague possibility that they could devise means to pass it in some way kept us uneasy on the sand. We must have them under observation. We were eager to explore the beautiful cove enclosed by the huge rampart, but we did not dare to be where we could not watch the ship. We did walk along the shore and ascend the giant stairs in the afternoon, then, while she watched the sea within calling distance of me, I managed to penetrate the jungle with ax in hand, so that finally I made shift to cut down a cocoa palm tree, and we gathered as many delicious nuts as we could carry and returned to the shore.

That night the sun set amid lowering clouds. With a sailor's weather sense, I was sure that we should have a storm. Pimball and Glibby sensed it too. We could see them making things snug along and aloft. They were good enough seamen, as far as that goes. The wind, if it came, would be off shore, and there would be no danger of the ship being driven upon our reef, but there were islands to leeward, which they seemed to have forgotten, which I remembered.

I explained all this to my little mistress as I made things snug for the night. She would be perfectly protected by the overhang of the cliff and the overturned boat, and I told her, although I left her alone in the boat, that the same overhang of the cliff would protect me from the wind and the rain if the storm broke. And so after prayers again and a long look seaward we went to sleep.

About midnight, so far as I could judge, I was awakened. The storm broke with all the suddenness and intensity of the tropics. Such peals of thunder and such flashes of lightning I have never witnessed, although I had been in many storms throughout the world. To sleep was impossible. Mistress Lucy came out from her boat and stood beside me as we leaned against the cliff while the storm drove harmlessly over our heads.

We could see the ship at intervals by the vivid flashes of lightning. She was making fearful weather of it. She was always a wet ship, and the huge waves fairly rolled over her. Once she went over nearly on her beam ends, and I thought she was gone. I didn't view her position with a great deal of regret either. Presently she drove off before the wind with a rag of her fore-top still showing, and that was the last we saw of her or her men, we thought.

Storm bound under the lee of the cliffs, we passed long and anxious hours the next day, although our only misfortune was the inclemency of the weather, for we were completely sheltered, and we had plenty of the refreshing milk of the coconut to vary our other food. The second day after it began the tempest finally blew itself out, although the great surging seas still broke tremendously over the barrier reef and the spray shot a score of feet or more above the crests of the highest waves. It was only the reflex of the storm, however, for during the night the wind had subsided into a gentle breeze.

When we scanned the sea next morning there was, of course, no sign of the ship. Our first inclination, and there was none to say us nay now, was to mount the stairs, cross the wall and look for that cave. We had neither chart nor record left, we had but our memories to trust to, but we were both agreed that the cave lay in the inner wall and that the parchment said it was the central one of three adjacent openings which gave entrance to the treasure chamber. And we could get a bearing on it from the central hill.

Now I had noticed that the coral wall both on the outer and inner sides was honeycombed with openings, rifts, fissures and caves which, by the way, were more frequent and deeper on the inside face, why I know not. We should have been compelled painfully and laboriously to search the whole face of the cliff in its extent of fifteen miles or so, but for the further direction of the parchment. I was thankful that, sailor like, old Sir Philip had given us the bearing. How did his words run? Something like this, my memory told me.

"Toe fynde ye mouthe of ye tresur cave take ye bearings alonge ye southe of ye three Goddes on ye Altar of Skulls on ye middel hille. Wh. ye line strykes ye bigge knicke in ye walle with ye talle palmme, his tree, bee three hoales. Climbe ye stones. Enter ye centre. Yt is there."

Plainly our first duty was to descend into the inclosed valley and explore the hillock in the center. I made no doubt but that we should find some sort of an altar and more of those curious stone images there. If they still remained the rest of our task would be comparatively easy.

With this determination, therefore, we set out. As I did not know how long our exploration would require and as I rather thought we should have to make a day of it, we started betimes. Indeed, as we invariably retired shortly after sunset we naturally rose at break of day. I took along food enough for the day, knowing that we could get water from the brooks and certain fruits which I judged would be good for us from the trees.

We went directly to the stairs and mounted them. Delaying but little or the crest, we crossed it rapidly and finally entered the valley. It was with a feeling of awe that we stood for the first time within the vast cup at the foot of the inner stairs, completely shut out from the world by the great towering rampart of rock which entirely inclosed us. I had never felt so far removed from the world as then. Outside, of course, the limitless ocean ran beyond the barrier reef, but one could follow it unto the dim, faroff distance with his vision. Within the cup the glance fell upon the rocky wall on every hand. It was almost like being in a prison for all its tropic loveliness.

Beneath the trees and quite invisible from above, a paved road or path, barely wide enough for four to walk abreast upon, extended straight across the island to the hillock in the middle, while smaller paths seemed to follow the course of the walls on either side. The ground was gently rolling, and the road, though overgrown in places and badly broken, was in much better condition than the broader path on the top of the wall. I suppose the fact that it was sheltered protected it. We passed along it for a mile and a half without much difficulty.

Finally we landed at the foot of the hillock. As I had observed from the wall it was grass grown and tree clad. Indeed, we should have been hard put to it to have ascended it, so dense was the vegetation, had it not been for the fact that the path was continued around the hill constantly mounting. Where it ran the somewhat shallow earth had been cut away on the hillside and the rock surface laid bare. Of course this path was frightfully overgrown.

We ascended with the utmost care. I finally drew my little mistress, her face bedewed as well as my own, up the last steep ascent and stood upon the crest.

We could now see why the top of the hill had seemed level when we first looked at it from the wall. Indeed, the coral rock rose in a sharp escarpment eight or ten feet above the highest treetops, making a sort of tableland or platform. This level, probably artificial, had been paved with the huge, dark gray rock of the stairs and statues and pathways. I may say in passing that in all our exploration of the island, which however, was not very thorough or complete owing to the shortness of our stay upon it, we saw no quarry whence this rock could have been taken, and the only way of accounting for its presence was that it had been brought there across the seas by the makers of the monuments and stairs, whoever they might have been. They must have had large seaworthy vessels and adequate means of land transportation, to say nothing of a most considerable engineering ability to accomplish these mighty works.

Well, the level top of the hillock was in shape a parallelogram, in extent perhaps an acre and a half. It was the most curious place I have ever seen. In the middle of it, with its four sides parallel to the sides of the plateau was a huge stone platform or altar perhaps 100 feet long by 70 feet wide. Completely surrounding this altar, but some distance away from it so as to make an aisle perhaps ten feet in width, rose a line of huge statues carved, like those at the foot of the stairs, into the semblance of monstrous human faces. Not one of them was like another. There was variation in each as there is variation in human faces. All were ugly, but all were lifelike and were singularly enough European.

"MURDER WILL OUT" AGAIN EXEMPLIFIED

Victim of Mysterious Crime Exhumed at Paris, Ill.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 1.—While excavating in South Central avenue here, across the street from the high school, workmen found the skeleton of a large woman, who unquestionably had been murdered. The skull was fractured and the legs had been doubled up to admit the body to a small grave. A board was placed over the body about a foot from the surface. The soles and heels of the shoes remained, but the uppers were dust, as were the dress and the undergarments.

The teeth indicate that the victim was between thirty and forty years old. The board over the grave is of the kind made by machinery, which has not been in use longer than fifteen years. The skeleton was found at a spot where once an old barn stood, and death apparently had been caused by a blow at the base of the skull by some blunt instrument.

A woman is said to have disappeared from a house near the barn, but the family that then occupied the house no longer lives in Paris. The woman left the house one evening after supper. Her absence was explained in a way that was readily accepted.

WILLIAM SULZER FOR MRS. SULZER

Broker Tells of Conversation With Governor.

ABOUT STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Before the High Court of Impeachment Melville B. Fuller Testifies That Governor Sulzer Told Him That Securities That Have Figured in Case Belonged to Mrs. Sulzer, Though Records Did Not Show It.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1.—In relation to his stock speculation new and astonishing evidence was set before the impeachment court. It was even more interesting than the previous avowal of a witness that when he gave the candidate $200 last fall Mr. Sulzer made him keep quiet about it, as gifts like that were regarded as personal and he did not intend to mention them in his sworn statement of expenses.

It was at his home in Albany that the governor spoke of Mrs. Sulzer. Broker Melville B. Fuller, who told the story to the impeachment court, had been called thither on July 30. He had been subpoenaed the day before by the Frawley committee to testify regarding Mr. Sulzer's marginal account with Harris & Fuller. The governor wanted to talk with Mr. Fuller about it. Their conversation took place in Mr. Sulzer's library after dinner. Only the governor and the broker were present.

"I said to him," Mr. Fuller testified, "that I had been subpoenaed to appear before the Frawley committee with my books, that I felt any client doing business with me was entitled to all the protection that the law would give him, that I had consulted with my attorney and if he advised me that I could legally refuse to answer the questions and about the books I would do so."

"Is that all?" asked Isidor Kresel, for the prosecution.

"No," said Mr. Fuller. "You want me to tell what the governor said to me?"

"Certainly, we want the entire conversation," Mr. Kresel said.

So Broker Fuller got a new grip on his voice and plunged ahead. He said the governor told him Lewis Marshall's opinion that the Frawley committee could not force Mr. Fuller to answer questions or produce books.

"I told him," Mr. Fuller continued, "that I should depend on my attorney in regard to that."

Then referring to securities which Mr. Sulzer had deposited in his account with Harris & Fuller, Mr. Fuller went on: "Governor Sulzer said to me, 'Mr. Fuller, you know that these securities were Mrs. Sulzer's, don't you?' and I said, 'No, I did not.' 'Hell,' he said, 'these securities belonged to Mrs. Sulzer when I brought them to you. She had a loan with the Carnegie Trust company. They required me to give a note every three months, and it was very annoying, so I took the securities down to you and borrowed the money from you.'"

"I said to Governor Sulzer: 'That may all be true, but there is no evidence of anything of that kind on my books and cannot be proven by me. If it is true you will have no trouble in proving it, as the books of the Carnegie Trust company must be a matter of record.'"

Linked with this testimony, in the opinion of the prosecution goes the order which Mr. Sulzer wrote to Harris & Fuller on July 14 last, whereby Lieutenant Commander L. M. Josephthal, the governor's naval aide, assumed Mr. Sulzer's account with the brokers by paying $26,000 cash and receiving a batch of securities, including the Big Four stock to which the governor was partial. That order was signed "William Sulzer for Mrs. Sulzer." But Mr. Fuller testified that the account was not Mrs. Sulzer's and that this was the first time he had heard her name in relation thereto.

CONSTANTINOPLE FLOODED

Loss of Life From Cloudburst Reaches Into the Hundreds.

Constantinople, Oct. 1.—It is estimated that 260 persons were drowned or killed as the result of a cloudburst late last night and early this morning which resulted in the worst flood ever remembered here. Those killed lost their lives by the wooden houses they occupied being swept away by the flood. The Bosphorus is thickly strewn with the wreckage of houses and the telegraph and telephone lines and many carcasses of animals.

UNPRECEDENTED FLOODS

Have Caused Enormous Losses Along the Texas Gulf Coast.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 1.—Reports received from along the Texas gulf coast from Sabine river to the Rio Grande, more than 700 miles, tell of destruction by unprecedented floods. The inundation of the lower Rio Grande valley caused heavy loss to sugar cane planters. The rice crop in the upper gulf coast territory is badly damaged. It is estimated the cotton crop loss is more than 50,000 bales, valued at $3,000,000.

BISHOP OF LONDON

Shocks Extreme Protestants by Reviving Old Question.

PLEA FOR A REVIVAL OF ANCIENT DOCTRINE

Anglican Church Congress Given a Surprise.

London, Oct. 1.—A sermon by Rt. Rev. Arthur Ingram, bishop of London, delivered at one of the services of the Church of England congress at Southampton in which he dealt with invocation to the saints, has shocked extreme Protestants. He made a plea for the restoration of that aspect of the doctrine of the communion of saints to which every Christian reciting the Apostles' Creed is pledged.

The bishop said it was a mistake to regard the invocation of the saints as a question which merely divided the Roman and Anglican churches. It was, he said, a question which concerned what was deepest in human nature and which was agitating the minds of many persons at the present moment and also occupying the attention of men of science. It would have to be reckoned with as much as anything else, said the bishop, if there was going to be a reunion of Christendom.

Bishop Ingram said he knew men to whom the invocation of the saints meant everything in life next to their belief in the Trinity. He suggested that the proposed supplement to the prayer book contain some form of commemoration recognizing fellowship in prayer between the living and the faithful dead. Nevertheless he did not wish to incur the risk of leading any from good in order to give comfort to those who would receive a wider vision through realizing more completely the communion of saints.

not appreciated. He wanted to know if there was ever an appropriation made for Watt Bartlett in burying dead dogs.

Mayor Black wanted the question to go over until the next meeting but Dr. Parsons demanded a vote on the question of the ordinance. The bill has been due and unpaid long enough according to Dr. Parsons. The ordinance was adopted with only one—Kelley—voting against it. On motion of Dr. Parsons the rules were suspended and the ordinance placed on second and third reading and final passage. Kelley was the only one voting against the ordinance.

Councilman Orme moved that the council adjourn and Mayor Black put the question and declared it carried but Parsons stated that there had been no second to the motion and inquiry among the councilmen showed that none had seconded the motion. With the council still in session an effort was made which would finally settle the bill of the tree doctors. Dr. Parsons moved that the clerk read the bill and that it be allowed as read. The bill was for $493.50 but the clerk could not find the original bill and started to read a duplicate. The mayor informed the council that they were not paying duplicate bills.

Mayor Black intimated that he would not sign the ordinance and in order to pay the bill last night it would have been necessary for the Mayor to sign the ordinance. "I have ten days in which to sign this ordinance said Mayor Black, "and I will investigate first. I want to do exactly right in this matter." That was as close as the bill came to being paid last night. Since the mayor would not sign it, the ordinance was not in effect and the money not appropriated until it is signed.

The inspectors for the coming city election follow: Russell Bebout, first precinct; S. C. Kirkpatrick, second precinct; Job Stevens, third precinct; George Pantenney, fourth precinct; R. G. Budd, fifth precinct; Donald Smith, sixth precinct. The inspectors appoint the judges and clerks. The judges and clerks will be made up of men from the two leading parties and the names are to be handed the inspector.

NATION TAKEN HOME

Wilbur Nation, who was shot by Ethie Waybright Sunday following a quarrel at Sandusky, and who was brought here yesterday and taken to the Sexton hospital to undergo an operation for the removal of one of his eyes, was able to be taken home today. The left eye was removed. Waybright used a shot gun and the eye was so badly lacerated that it was necessary to be removed. Nation was greatly improved and will probably recover.

FINISHES WITH PERFECT SCORE

Rocky mountains and is moving this way, dispersing the clouds and bringing fair weather. The weather man does not expect much change in the temperature in the immediate future. He admitted it all depended on the course the high air pressure area traveled.

The temperature for the first eight days of September averaged about 9 degrees below normal, which is 67 degrees. For the remainder of the month the temperature averaged about 5 degrees below normal just to show that it could be contrary if it wished to. The first heavy frost came September 3.
